

Pedro and the missing capitals

Instructions: The passage below has no capital letters. Copy it, making sure you include the correct capital letters.

charlie walked in and went to the desk to sign the visitor's book.

'morning, young man.'

charlie looked up. 'hello, mrs grimblethorpe.' she was a big lady with horn-rimmed glasses who lived in a room two doors down from his grandpa.

'if you're looking for your grandpa,' she said, 'he's sitting outside round the back. you can get out through that door over there.'

'thanks,' said charlie.

'have you guessed pedro's weight?' asked mrs grimblethorpe.

'what?' asked charlie.

mrs grimblethorpe pointed to a stuffed panda sitting on the desk. it had a big sign by it which said: guess my weight for a pound and you can take me home.

'i've made this panda to help raise money for the care home,' she said. 'he's called pedro. he's good quality. not like the cheap ones you see in heatherbridge supermarket.'

Charlie Lupton and the Cavalier's Treasure, Nigel A. Bernard, p. 25.

Pedro and the missing capitals

Answer

Charlie walked in and went to the desk to sign the visitor's book.

'Morning, young man.'

Charlie looked up. 'Hello, Mrs Grimblethorpe.' She was a big lady with horn-rimmed glasses who lived in a room two doors down from his grandpa.

'If you're looking for your grandpa,' she said, 'he's sitting outside round the back. You can get out through that door over there.'

'Thanks,' said Charlie.

'Have you guessed Pedro's weight?' asked Mrs Grimblethorpe.

'What?' asked Charlie.

Mrs Grimblethorpe pointed to a stuffed panda sitting on the desk. It had a big sign by it which said: Guess my weight for a pound and you can take me home.

'I've made this panda to help raise money for the care home,' she said. 'He's called Pedro. He's good quality. Not like the cheap ones you see in Heatherbridge Supermarket.'

Charlie Lupton and the Cavalier's Treasure, Nigel A. Bernard, p. 25.